Wellspring Interfaith Social Services enrolled 268 kids in their Free Summer Day Camp Program—the most since before the Pandemic.

FORT WAYNE, Ind. – Wellspring Interfaith Social Services enrolled 268 kids in the Summer Day Camp this year ranging from pre-k to middle school.

Wellspring’s Summer Camp has been operating since 1968. The camp is known for being free of charge for families in our community and this year’s enrollment is at a record high since before the Pandemic. Children in the program are able to enjoy field trips, music and dance lessons, reading, crafts, and other educational activities.

“This year our goal was to accept all applications and not turn away any parents who needed a safe place for their children while at work. With the support from our community, we have met our goal, and we are happy that we can continue to provide this valuable service to our community for over 50 years.” Says Ermina Mustedanagic, Wellspring CEO

Wellspring provides educational programming for youth, senior citizens, and adults with disabilities. Additionally, Wellspring offers food and clothing to anyone needing these services. Our mission is lived out daily – “People of faith serving the social, physical, and educational needs of the community in Allen County.”
